

What if I disagree with the results of a credit dispute?

You have the right to add a brief statement to your credit report. It needs to be 100 words or less and should include factual information. The Credit Reporting Agency must include a summary of your statement in all future credit reports issued.

The only problem is that many companies only pull point scores. With point scores your statement is not reported.

For more information on Disputes - see "Credit Issues", "Your Rights"